Course summary

This course is designed to make delegates aware of dyslexia, and the potential positive and negative impact it can have on people in the workplace.

We investigate potential challenges, such as reading, writing, planning, organising and processing information from memory. And, delegates will have the opportunity to learn about the potential skills and strengths dyslexic individuals bring to the workplace.

We'll explore potential strategies and approaches you can adopt to support people with dyslexia, and help them to succeed at work. This includes communication strategies and practical steps to remove barriers with workplace adjustments.

The course is fully interactive with a range of engaging and stimulating exercises, plus opportunities for discussion and sharing real-life challenges and successes.

Your organisation will get a summary of feedback in order to show the course's impact and to identify any further learning need.

The course has been developed in line with the Training Accreditation Programme methodology, an industry-recognised standard which structures training and embeds learning effectively.
